GREAT HURRICANE MENACES FLORIDA COAST

CUTS OFF TOWNS SOUTH OF AREA NEAR DAYTONA

GRAVEST FEARS FELT FOR TERRITORY INCLUDING WEST PALM BEACH

BELIEVED TO BE ROARING INLAND WITH ALL ITS RAGING FURY

BY LEE GEBHART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 17.—A great hurricane from out of the Indies dealt destruction and possibly to the Florida peninsula today.

South of Daytona on the east coast, towns and cities including West Palm Beach, were cut off. Gravest fears were felt for inhabitants of the stricken area.

The tempest was believed roaring inland in all its fury of winds that cut off house tops, laid low communication systems, and caused suffering and perhaps death.

For hours there had been no authentic word, not even by radio, of what had occurred in a 50 mile belt near West Palm Beach, which before the winter influx of visitors is a city of 22,000.

The United Press correspondent at Titusville early today telephoned that a screaming wind of perhaps 100 miles an hour velocity was rocking houses there. Titusville is 150 miles north of Palm Beach.

Inland at Orlando houses rocked in the tempest.

The storm appeared to be smashing its way across the peninsula like a gigantic sword, cutting down everything in its path. Communication lines were generally out. Public utilities were crippled.

Before wires to West Palm Beach failed, reports came of house tops sailing through the air, trees pulled up like grass and seas 35 to 40 feet high pounding on the shore.

What was happening to human lives endangered in the unprecedented storm remained a matter of conjecture.

The hurricane struck the coast yesterday centering near Jupiter inlet, north of Palm Beach. Early today it had dealt two successive shocks. Towns on the fringe of the disturbance reported high winds at dusk yesterday and then a lull.

Early today these same towns, including Daytona Beach and Orlando in the interior, reported a recurrence of high winds, this time of amazing velocity, estimated at between 90 and 100 miles an hour. The American Telephone and Telephone Company reported a 100-mile wind at Palm Beach today.

Shipping was at a standstill all along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts. Adequate warnings had been given of the hurricane danger.

In Tampa Bay three destroyers rode at anchor, ready to be dispatched to aid any vessels in distress.

A motley stream of cars passed northward through Jacksonville today as residents of cautious nature moved out of the state to escape the hurricane hazards.

At Daytona during the night, main highways were clogged with the northbound traffic bound for Georgia or further north.

SEEK RELIEF FOR MANY PORTO RICANS

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 17.—(UP)—A meeting at the Governor's palace has been called for today to consider means of bringing relief to thousands of Porto Ricans who are homeless and starving as a result of the hurricane which swept the island Thursday.

Communication with the interior of the island is still impossible. Torrential rains have caused many landslides along the highways. Trees have been torn up by the roots. Officials believe fully half of the population is homeless.

With conservative estimates of the dead placed at 200 it was believed that as reports on the havoc worked in the interior of the island would increase that number. At Cayey it was reported that 30 had perished and that 35 had died in the city of Rumacac.

Ponce was reported as devastated but there was no definite count of dead or of the destruction there.

Estimates of the damage, formulated by a group of bankers here, placed the loss of cattle at 200,000, the loss to the coffee crop at $30,000,000 and the loss of the sugar crop almost as heavy. It was believed that the total damages would far exceed $50,000,000.

Governor Townier sent out an urgent request for aid for the natives who are without food and shelter as many of their homes were destroyed.

Smith Begins Brown Derby Campaign to Win West

LOG TRAIN DERAILS IN THE PHILIPPINES; 16 PERSONS KILLED

Manila, P. I., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Sixteen persons were killed and 25 others injured today when a log train was derailed at Cadiz, in the province of Occidental Negros.

Men riding on top of the logs were thrown off when the train hit a curve at high speed.

They were crowding together in public buildings too limited in number to accommodate them. The supplies of food upon the island were reported inadequate.

Efforts to restore communications with the inland parts of the island went steadily forward although very greatly hampered by debris.

Daytona Beach, Fla., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Two high winds beating on this city veered from the northwest to the southeast today and increased in velocity to around 60 miles an hour.

Trees were uprooted, roofs damaged, signboards demolished, plate glass windows smashed. At 7:45 o'clock there were no reported casualties.

Yachts in the Halifax river were being battered to pieces today by high winds and lashing seas, as the edge of a hurricane struck this city. Owners looked on helplessly.

A Florida East Coast railway passenger train due here at 5:30 a. m. was long overdue. Railroad officials believed it was marooned somewhere in the hurricane stricken district to the south.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 17.—(UP)—The hurricane raking Florida apparently with unprecedented severity, beat upon the fertile and well populated interior of the Peninsula this afternoon as it swung northward.

The west coast north of Tampa and the western fringe of the state from Tallahassee on, was believed doomed to feel the full force of the great storm.

High winds in some localities of 90 or more miles an hour velocity, were blowing from the east to the west coast along the 200 mile wide hurricane strip.

As hour after hour went by with no definite word from many cities and towns caught in the tempest's path, fears increased that there might be a large casualty list. However, there were no verified reports of loss of life at noon here.

Tuesday morning there will be an automobile parade through Hudson and Bergen counties and an inspection trip to the Newark airport.

Hoover then will start on an automobile trip across the state to Trenton, stopping to greet crowds at New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Princeton and other towns along the way. He will board the train Tuesday afternoon at Trenton and return to Washington.

Lyle Womack wants to go to south pole

Ancon, C. Z., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Lyle Womack, who is suing Ruth Elder, his aviator wife, for divorce, tried today to sign up with the Byrd expedition to the South Pole.

Womack boarded the City of New York, the expedition's supply ship, when it entered the Panama canal. He passed through the canal aboard the City of New York, trying to persuade her captain to permit him to join the crew.

Washington, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The American Red Cross sent telegrams to its 3,500 chapters in the United States asking redoubled efforts to raise a large relief fund for Porto Rico and other hurricane-stricken islands.

The telegrams said that latest word showed the Porto Rico disaster even worse than at first feared, and that vast sums would be needed to furnish not only temporary relief but later rehabilitation of the victims.

The Red Cross ordered its New York agent to double his contemplated purchases of food supplies there, making a total shipment of 750,000 pounds to be sent on the Naval Store Ship Bridge, these food stuff will cost about $150,000.

Maj. Gen. Summerall, army chief of staff, also placed at the Red Cross disposal a large quantity of tents and blankets now in the army storage house in New York. They will be shipped on the Bridge to San Juan.

President Coolidge moved immediately to relieve Porto Rican conditions by ordering the army transport, St. Mihiel, which left New York Friday for Panama, to stop at San Juan tomorrow and discharge her cargo of 550 tons of food stuffs.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 17.—(UP)—First communication with the Bahamas was established today when the tropical radio station at Hialeah, Fla., spoke with the government radio station at Bimini, off the Florida coast. Bimini reported considerable damage there. Efforts were being made to get further details.

Hoover Sets Out On 2 Day Tour Through Industrial New Jersey; Will Speak Tonight

OPENS SPEAKING CAMPAIGN IN EASTERN AREA

WILL LAY DOWN HIS CAMPAIGN PROMISES TO LABOR

EXPECTS TO SEE PERHAPS HALF MILLION PEOPLE DURING HIS TRIP

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Special Hoover Train Enroute to Newark, N. J., Sept. 17.—Herbert Hoover set out today on a two-day trip through industrial Northern New Jersey, opening his speaking campaign in the east.

In an address at Newark tonight he will lay down his campaign promises to labor, and during today and tomorrow he plans to motor through half a dozen New Jersey towns, seeing perhaps half a million people.

It is a tremendously important trip for the Republican presidential nominee as it will bring him close to New York City, the home town and stronghold of his democratic opponent Gov. Alfred E. Smith where the prohibition issue is probably strongest.

His speech will mark the first of a series of four campaign speeches he intends to deliver before he starts west the latter part of October to vote.

Leaving here after breakfast on a Pennsylvania railroad special train, the nominee will arrive at Newark at 2 p. m. daylight saving time.

An old fashioned torchlight parade has been arranged prior to the delivery of the speech in the First Regiment armory. He will spend the night at the home of Thomas Edison at East Orange, and will inspect the Edison plant during the afternoon.

Tuesday morning there will be an automobile parade through Hudson and Bergen counties and an inspection trip to the Newark airport.

Hoover then will start on an automobile trip across the state to Trenton, stopping to greet crowds at New Brunswick, Elizabeth, Princeton and other towns along the way. He will board the train Tuesday afternoon at Trenton and return to Washington.

The towering structure includes a Carillon, or musical bells, which are still rare in America, a gift of Drs. William and Charles Mayo to the Legion.

In a cornerstone of the building was placed a statement, repeated by Dr. Mayo in his dedicatory speech which said:

"Intelligence with knowledge enables wisdom to extend the highest service. Such service made necessary this building to which we now dedicate to the relief of suffering through diagnosis, treatment and cure of disease and the healing of wounds."

Stafford King, newly elected state commander of the Legion accepted the Carillon in the name of his organization.

Pistol fight follows double mistake in identity

Mount Holly, N. J., Sept. 17.—(UP)—In a pistol fight that resulted from a double mistake of identity, Giuseppe de Luca, fruit farm foreman, was killed and Deputy Game Warden Lawrence Powell was wounded.

De Luca mistook Powell for an agent of Philadelphia "racketeers" whom he expected to kill him. As De Luca drew a pistol and wounded Powell, the warden, thinking De Luca was a poacher, returned the fire. De Luca dropped dead.

Damage was estimated at $2,000,000.

Chicago moves to destroy mafia extortion ring

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Chicago moved today to destroy the Mafia extortion ring which for twelve days has held prisoner 10-year-old "Billy" Ranieri demanding $60,000 ransom for his release.

Chicago's Sicilian colony, for years victimized by well organized extortion rings, apparently has decided to overthrow the terrorist rule, police announced today.

Police said law-abiding Sicilians had sent word about the colony that "an eye for an eye, a life for a life" would be exacted of the kidnapers of the Ranieri child.

The uprising followed receipt by the child's father A. Frank Ranieri, of a new threat letter from the extortion ring. The letter read:

ROCKFORD BEGINS RECONSTRUCTION WORK TODAY

SEEKS TO REHABILITATE INDUSTRIAL SECTION DAMAGED IN TORNADO

SQUADS OF WORKMEN STILL SEARCHING FACTORY AREA FOR MORE BODIES

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Rockford today began the reconstruction of its industrial section which was devastated by a tornado Friday night with the loss of eleven lives.

The Rockford Chamber of Commerce organized the work of clearing the storm area where three factories and 20 homes were laid waste.

Several squads of workmen still searched debris of the Rockford furniture factory for the bodies of three factory employees believed to have been trapped in the falling structure. Three bodies were found yesterday.

NEW VIOLENT STORMS RAVAGE ALL ALGERIA

Paris, Sept. 17.—(UP)—A new series of violent storms was reported today from Algiers, causing fear among the population that the disaster of last year's storm would be repeated.

Several large villas in the outskirts of Algiers were blown down.

It was not known whether there was any loss of life. Telegraph wires were down and railroad and streetcar traffic held up. Emergency food and medical supplies were being made ready in the principal towns in case they are needed.

CHICAGO MOVES TO DESTROY MAFIA EXTORTION RING

Chicago, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Chicago moved today to destroy the Mafia extortion ring which for twelve days has held prisoner 10-year-old "Billy" Ranieri demanding $60,000 ransom for his release.

Chicago's Sicilian colony, for years victimized by well organized extortion rings, apparently has decided to overthrow the terrorist rule, police announced today.

Police said law-abiding Sicilians had sent word about the colony that "an eye for an eye, a life for a life" would be exacted of the kidnapers of the Ranieri child.

The uprising followed receipt by the child's father A. Frank Ranieri, of a new threat letter from the extortion ring. The letter read:

"Would you know the boy's head if you saw it?"

"You have the money and if you don't put it here you will receive a nice little package, and see if you know who it is? You will never find the other part of your son."

The letter was accompanied by a note, identified by Ranieri, as having been written by his son. It read:

"Please papa, pay the money or you will never see me again."

Ranieri, a wealthy contractor, was said to have broken off all private negotiations with the alleged agents of the kidnapers and to have turned to police in a last effort to save his son.

Angelo Pettiti, supposed saloon keeper, was questioned by Cragin police on the theory he had assumed the leadership of the slain Antonio Lombardo in the colony and had been directing terrorist activities.

Detectives said they had learned that more than 50 blackmail letters had been written from Pettiti's place of business during the last two months.

In the last 30 days, these extortionists have victimized at least 50 Italians and Sicilians, taking from each of them sums ranging from $1,000 to $2,000," Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hoffman said.

"The ring flourished because it imposed silence upon its victims under threat of death, and police have been unable to learn the actual operations."

Wholesale warrants authorizing search of Sicilian colonies may be one of first movements against the ring, it was intimated. A renewal of the deportation campaign launched two years ago also was suggested.

Minneapolis, Sept. 17.—(UP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge were described as "fine Christian people" here last night by John Taylor, blind lay pastor, at whose church in Brule, Wis., the chief executive and first lady worshipped this summer.

"President Coolidge," Taylor said, "is a genuine American gentleman."

"If, however, the president lacked any good quality," the blind preacher continued, "Mrs. Coolidge made up for it."

TO ELABORATE HIS STAND ON FARM RELIEF

ALSO TO EXPLAIN OTHER ISSUES CONFRONTING HIS CANDIDACY

WILL SEE COUNTRY AROUND OMAHA FOR FIRST TIME IN HIS LIFE

By THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Governor Smith's Special Train Enroute to Omaha, Sept. 17.—Governor Alfred E. Smith was on his way today for his brown derby campaign to win the west.

The derby, a bright shiny one, was tucked away in the luxurious special car which carried the democratic candidate through the middle west for the first elaboration of his stand on the agricultural relief and other issues since he accepted his party's nomination for president.

He will open his campaign tomorrow night at Omaha with a detailed analysis of his position on the farm relief problem, the dominant issue in that vast territory beyond the Mississippi, much of which the former East Side boy will see for the first time on his tour.

Governor Smith slept late today, recuperating from the strain of his last day in Albany, when he personally superintended the packing for his tour.

It was a tremendous welcome and the democratic candidate recalled it fondly today as he faced the alien land before him.

It was an old fashioned "red fire" send off.

As he and Mrs. Smith and their daughter, Mrs. John A. Warner, stepped from their car at the station, there was the sputter of torches and the street was emblazoned with the brilliant crimson glow. The crowd set up a tremendous whoop. Smith wore his brown derby.

"Good luck, Al, he shouted. "Bring back the west."

All the members of the Smith family, except the grandchildren, whom the governor had kissed goodbye before they were tucked away, were at the station to bid the candidate and his wife goodbye.

The special car in which the candidate and his party are travelling, the St. Nicholas, belonging to William F. Kenna, is equipped with three radio receiving sets, so that the candidate at all times may keep closely in touch with what goes on in the world.

Tomorrow night he will tune in on Hoover's speech at Newark, N. J. and if there is any issue raised there that he thinks should be met, he will meet it, as is his custom, and as he has promised.

The train's first scheduled stop is for an hour at Chicago tonight to change to another route. The train is scheduled to reach Omaha at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday for the speech that night.

From Omaha the governor will proceed southward to Oklahoma City for a speech Thursday night. Then he will turn northward toward Denver, where he will speak Saturday night. The following week he will make addresses at Helena, Montana, St. Paul and Milwaukee, before turning eastward for Rochester, where he will address the State Democratic convention on October first.

He will show himself widely in the west by over thirty short stops, ranging from 15 minutes to an hour. At some of the cities he will enter the city for a formal welcome.

More than a hundred men were on duty in chair factory of the Rockford Cabinet Company pictured above when the tornado which left a toll of some fifty dead and some 200 seriously injured at Rockford, Ill., smashed the roof and third floor down upon the second floor, entombing the men in a tangled mass of concrete, timber and steel. Then the twister swept on across the town, demolishing all in its path.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

September 17, 1903

It has been reported that valuable iron discoveries have been made near Rossburg, a station east of Aitkin, and a diamond drill has been shipped there and put to work. For about two years prospectors, believed to be employed by three steel trusts, have been making borings in that county, and now reports come from settlers and cruisers that valuable iron finds have been made. Two leases have been made for mining privileges for a term of 50 years with settlers near Rossburg, and many others have been approached, and it is believed a number of them have signed leases. Iron ore was discovered in the county 15 years ago, and ever since then there has been more or less faith in the ultimate discovery of productive properties.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moberg very pleasantly entertained at dinner Wednesday evening the following: Rev. and Mrs. Richard Brown and Miss Joy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Losey, Rev. W. F. Marts and the Misses Ella and Sadie Robinson.

DUCK BOAT OVERTURNS, BRAINERD MAN DROWNS

Arthur Kittelson Claimed in First Tragedy of Duck Hunting Season at Pistol Lake

BODY NOT RECOVERED

Boat Overturns 200 Feet From the Shore; Curtis Neue Saved by Swimming to Shore

Arthur Kittelson, Brainerd, was drowned this morning in Pistol Lake about 40 miles north of Brainerd when his duck boat overturned about 200 feet from shore, according to word received here.

Curtis Neue, Brainerd, who occupied the same boat saved himself by swimming to the shore.

Cass county authorities were dragging the lake at the location of the tragedy in an attempt to recover the body.

The drowning occurred between 9 and 10 a. m. as the two attempted to bring their water filled boat to shore after duck hunting for a couple of hours.

The boat was forced over by the choppy waves that filled boat and added to the heavy weight of the boat loaded down with hunting supplies.

Mr. Kittelson is about 32 years old. He is a paperhanger by trade. Surviving besides his wife are two children, residing on North Ninth street.

AN IDEA THAT WOULDN'T DIE

Today That Idea is Perfected in Stott Briquets "The Perfect Fuel"

Fire is man's best friend—and fire is man's worst enemy. When he has it under control fire provides the means to conquer his environment and to make the things for the civilization he is building. Out of control, fire destroys him and his possessions.

It is natural, then, that through all the ages man has been experimenting with fire and fuels. He has tried out every new fuel that came to his hands, and he has sought to improve those in common use. He long ago found out that the ideal fuel must have several definite qualities: it must produce a great volume of heat—it must be clean and easy to handle—and it must be one he can control. But he also found that all these qualities are not to be found combined in any natural fuel.

It is for this reason, no doubt, that man has continued so persistently to make his own fuel or to adapt natural fuels to better fit his needs. One of his earliest experiments—one which he has found uniformly successful—was that of compressing or "briquetting" coal. In this way he can combine several kinds of coal, excluding the undesirable elements, in the most convenient form.

History records that the Chinese of the earliest times practiced this method of "briquetting" coal and other fuels.

But not until the process was introduced in Europe did it undergo any improvement. As early as 1594 "Cole Balls" were used in the factories of Germany.

In this country briquets were first made in Philadelphia, in 1870, with the aid of European machinery. From that time on the use of briquets in American homes has gained steadily. Today about a million tons of briquets are produced annually in the United States.

The Stott Briquets Company began manufacturing in 1909 at Superior. From the first this company has continued its research and experimentation in the effort to produce a briquet which would meet every requirement of the ideal home fuel. Different coals were tried and blended in various ratios and combinations and finally by a process of elimination a blend of Pennsylvania hard coal and Pocahontas smokeless was found to produce the best briquet. The Pocahontas gives quick ignition and very little ash and the Pennsylvania hard coal contributes intense heat and its own unequalled "fire-holding" qualities. This ideal blend, gaining in popularity with householders for 19 years, has justly earned its characterization as "The Perfect Fuel."

During these 19 years the Stott Briquet Company production has increased 1200 per cent involving the solution of many difficult problems, not the least of which is the washing of the Pennsylvania hard coal before it is shipped from the mines by rail and boat to Superior, Wis., where with the Pocahontas and the binder it is made into little pillow shaped briquets about two inches square and weighing a little more than two ounces a piece. This size and shape was adopted only after thorough tests had proved that it would give the most efficient fuel bed, one which can be perfectly controlled to give just the heat required.

Stott briquets are practically smokeless and yield very little ash, with no clinkers. They are clean and easy to handle and produce a steady volume of heat with the minimum of attention and waste. They can be used with equally efficient results in parlor furnaces, stoves, heaters, kitchen ranges, fireplaces and brooder stoves. Their popularity is attested by the ever increasing demand which last year required the Stott Briquet Company to make about 25% of the total tonnage of briquets produced in the United States.

STERILIZING YOUR SOFT DRINK BOTTLE

J. F. Cibuzar Tells of Elaborate Precautions to Insure Wholesome Purity

The modern method of mixing and bottling carbonated soft drinks is a practical miracle, according to J. F. Cibuzar of the Brainerd Bottling Works, Brainerd.

"We are living in an age of machinery," said Mr. Cibuzar, "and in our plant we have machines that are almost human. As a matter of fact, our whole process of mixing and bottling is accomplished without the touch of human hands. One of the most important steps is the sterilization of the bottle, for that is the only way the purity of the drink itself can be protected.

"An endless belt composed of a series of pockets, each holding a single bottle, carries the bottles by a succession of short jumps over two big cylinders in either end of the bottle washing machine. At each jump the bottles are held over individual tubes which force scalding water, impregnated with caustic soda, up into them with tremendous force. In the meantime revolving brushes have scrubbed the inside and outside of the bottle. The bottles then pass on to the second cylinder, where another series of tubes rinse them with clear, pure water. Only after such severe precautions as these is the bottle considered acceptable for filling with Brainerd Springs Beverages.

FARMERS AND DEMOCRATIC TARIFFS

WHILE the stand of the Democratic convention on tariff protection was a cause of seven day comment and wonder among the newspapers and magazines as to what produced the change of heart, study of past presidential campaigns shows that both Cleveland and Wilson made promises to refrain from harmful tariff tinkering. And both acted contrary to what the country understood the promises to mean. Governor Smith in his acceptance speech warns that Republicans will attempt to misinterpret his tariff stand, but at the same time he praises the Underwood tariff act of 1912 as his idea of correct tariff legislation. And it is important, therefore, to note how the Northwest fared in this model tariff bill before the votes are cast in November. The Democratic platform does not state who are to be the goats of "a Democratic tariff based on justice to all." Here are some of the changes made by the Underwood act after Wilson and his party had made statements not different in kind from those made by the present candidate of that party. The Northwest farm protection was reduced as follows:

- Butter from 6 cents to 2½ cents.
- Eggs from 5 cents to 0.
- Milk from 2 cents a gallon to 0.
- Lard from 1½ cents a pound to 0.
- Bacon and ham from 4 cents to 0.
- Fresh lamb from 1½ cents to 0.
- Poultry from 5 cents to 0.
- Honey from 20 cents a gallon to 10.
- Raw wool from 33 cents a pound to 0.
- Sugar from 1.685 cents to 1.256.
- Hay from $4 a ton to $2.
- Turnips from 25 per cent to 15 per cent.
- Linseed oil from 15 cents a gallon to 10 cents.
- Potato starch from 1½ cents a pound to 1 cent.
- Brooms from 40 per cent to 15 per cent.
- Onions from 40 cents a bushel to 20 cents.
- Peas from 25 cents a bushel to 10 cents.
- Apples from 25 cents a bushel to 10 cents.
- Wheat from 25 cents a bushel to 0.
- Rye from 10 cents a bushel to 0.
- Oats from 15 cents a bushel to 6 cents.
- Corn from 15 cents a bushel to 0.
- Barley from 30 cents a bushel to 15 cents.
- Potatoes (Irish) from 25 cents a bushel to 0.
- Cattle from $2 a head to 0.
- Hogs from $1.50 a head to 0.
- Sheep and goats from $1 a head to 0.
- Horses from $30 a head to 10 per cent.
- Cheese from 6 cents a pound to 20 per cent.
- Tomatoes from 25 per cent to 15 per cent.
- Maple syrup from 4 cents a pound to 3 cents.

Astonishing as it may seem to those who have not studied the question, the framers of the Underwood tariff act did not find a single Northwest farm product worthy of the protection given it by the previous Republican administration!—St. Cloud Journal-Press.

SOUTH AFRICAN PAPER

THE DISPATCH is in receipt of the Sunday Times of Johannesburg, Transvaal, presented by Julius Viken who has a brother, Nils, working as electrical engineer in a gold mine on the Rand. The issue of July 1 is one of 56 pages.

The front page makeup differs most decidedly from what an American is accustomed to. The eight columns carry a "People's Column" of paid three and four lines of type announcing births, engagements and marriage. Then comes a gossipy "Letter from Home" (Johannesburg); a five column cartoon; a letter from London town; and at the bottom of the page "The Passing Show" notes and "Sunday Sallies." The up to the minute exciting news is buried in inside pages.

The news of the killing of "Big Tim Murphy" of Chicago by gangster machine guns is headed "Front-Door Doom." Tim was killed on his own doorstep.

Patent medicine ads of Americans are numerous, also toilet articles, automobiles, etc. An American, however, would have to be vitally interested in South Africa, if he wished to use their newspapers as a steady literary diet.

CULTIVATING TASTE FOR POETRY

FOR conversational discussion the year book of the Kappa Delphians suggests, "How can a taste for poetry be cultivated?" "In general our enjoyment whether of art, music, literature or our fellow men is dependent upon our understanding. People think and feel on different planes of thought and feeling and there are different planes of emotion. If your character is base, the plane of your emotion will be low. If your character is noble, the plane of your emotion will be high. Music will give the listener whatever he is capable of receiving."

Many will avow total ignorance of poetry and music; yet there is not the slightest question but that their lives would be richer for at least an elementary understanding of both.

Many people who cannot even whistle a tune, love the best in music. One does not need to be a painter, a musician or poet to love the best in art, song or literature. By appreciating and digesting the best, all humanity is advanced.

RAVAGES OF VODKA

RUSSIAN vodka, which is liquid dynamite, has so demoralized the morale of the Russians, that the Soviet government, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow, has adopted measures drastically limiting its sale.

After two years of unbridled indulgence, the swing back towards prohibition occurred despite the fact that the manufacture and sale of vodka had become one of the Russian government's chief sources of revenue.

A commission specially appointed to study and investigate the effects of the evil and methods of fighting against it recently worked out a special decree on the subject, the salient points of which have already been approved by the government law. Even the production of beer is to be curtailed.

Still Seeking a Little Privacy

Surrounded on his arrival at Gare du Nord, Paris, by volatile well-wishers, Gene Tunney, retired undefeated champion of the world, reminded interviewers that he was entitled to a little of that liberty for which Frenchmen fought a few score years ago. He wants privacy in his private affairs, he said.

SAY MINNESOTA

BABIES DO NOT SLEEP ENOUGH

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Following a survey of the Twin Cities and nearby rural districts three experts from the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota, announced that Minnesota babies do not get the required amount of sleep.

Dr. J. E. Anderson declared that a survey conducted upon studies made with nearly 1,200 babies showed that the vast majority of infants under one year received only 14 hours of sleep while 16 to 18 hours was required. The child experts recommended that longer naps be given babies and children during the day.

$200,000 FIRE AT WASHBURN-CROSBY MINNEAPOLIS MILL

Minneapolis, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Fire which raged for 16 hours through a mill of the Washburn-Crosby company here was believed under control today after causing estimated damage of $200,000.

A heavy rain that fell during the early morning hours saved a score of nearby mills and elevators and several hundred loaded wheat cars. No one was believed injured although 12 watchmen were rescued from the building.

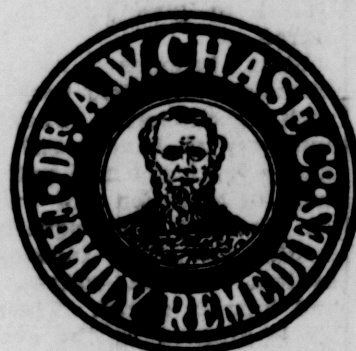

Spontaneous combustion or an explosion of flour dust were advanced as possible causes for the fire.

Better, better---who has something better?

To stand still is to stagnate. We Americans are not content with what we have; we are always looking for something better. We want better and more wholesome foods. We want newer and better ways of doing things—labor-saving devices, short-cuts. We want better educational facilities, better and more comfortable homes, better working conditions. Betterment is progress. That's why every today is better than every yesterday.

Advertising is a medium of progress. Through advertisements we learn of the newest time and labor-saving machines for home and factory. Advertisements keep us posted on progress in sciences; of the new or improved foods, clothes and the every-day necessities of life.

You have but to look through the advertisements in the newspapers or magazines to find the article you need or want, advertised.

Advertising supplies new ideas, new materials, new methods to a work-a-day world. It helps make today better than yesterday.

CAPTAIN FAWCETT TO HUNT GRIZZLIES IN ALASKAN WILDS

SAILS FROM SEATTLE, WASH. SEPTEMBER 22

LAST YEAR CAPTAIN FAWCETT SHOT MOOSE WITH 63 1/2 INCH ANTLER SPREAD

HE ALSO OBTAINED TWO SLENDID MOUNTAIN SHEEP AND A HUGE BLACK BEAR

Captain W. H. Fawcett, of Breezy Point, who was in charge of the last American Olympic trapshooting team that won the world's championship, will sail from Seattle on the Steamship Alutian, September 22 for Kodiak Island where he will try to obtain a Kodiak brown bear. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Fawcett.

From Kodiak Island he will hunt in the Chickaloon-Nelchmi district of Alaska for grizzlies, mountain goats and caribou.

Last year Captain Fawcett obtained one of the largest moose that has come out of Alaska recently. It had a spread of 63 and 1/2 inches, and was shot on the Kenai peninsula. He also obtained two mountain sheep and a black bear.

Yesterday's Hero—Fred Fussell, Pittsburgh southpaw, who pitched the Pirates to a 1 to 0 victory over the New York Giants. Fussell held the Giants to seven hits and was invincible in the pinches.

Ethan Allen's single in the tenth drove in two runs and gave the Cincinnati Reds a 4 to 3 victory over the Brooklyn Robins in the only other National league game.

Home runs by Gehrig and Koenig helped the New York Yankees defeat the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 5, and retain their half game margin over the Philadelphia Athletics.

Lefty Grove allowed the Cleveland Indians only four hits and the Athletics won again, 7 to 1. The A's bunched their hits in the sixth-inning to drive Shaute from the mound and score six runs.

Sam Rice starred as the Washington Senators beat the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 7. Rice made three hits and scored four runs.

The Chicago White Sox broke even with the Boston Red Sox, winning the first game, 7 to 1, and losing the second 2 to 0.

WEATHER TOO WARM FOR HUNTING, SAY DUCK HUNTERS

St. Paul, Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—"The weather is too warm," was the verdict of several thousand disgruntled hunters who crouched in passes near Minnesota lakes at the opening of the duck season at daylight Sunday.

A record number of hunters were thought to have stalked the northern Minnesota sloughs and birds were reported plentiful but shooting poor. The season opens were free with ammunition, however, and the bag of sparrows and crows was reported heavy. "Wait until October," was the watchword of the gamblers.

THUD OF CLEATS AGAINST PIGSKIN RESOUNDS TODAY

350 MEN REPORT FOR FALL FOOTBALL PRACTICE IN BIG 6 CONFERENCE

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 17.—(U.P.)—The thud of cleated shoe against inflated pigskin became a familiar and joyful sound over the Big Six and Missouri Valley conferences today when the 1928 football season opened officially in ten schools composing the two organizations.

In the new big six conference, composed of the universities of Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma and Kansas Agricultural and Iowa State colleges more than 350 men reported for fall football practice. In the old Missouri Valley conference, composed now of Oklahoma A. & M., Grinnell College, Drake University at St. Louis, more than 150 men reported in uniform.

The Big Six conference, newest of intercollegiate organizations, will be the major football league in this section this year, whereas last season the major circuit was the Missouri Valley conference, then composed of members of the Big Six and present Missouri Valley group. The old circuit, made up of ten members, was unwieldy and members could not play each other in an eight game schedule. The larger members of the circuit withdrew after the 1927 gridiron season and formed the Big Six, leaving the name of the old conference to the smaller schools.

HUNTERS REPORT DUCKS ELUSIVE

OPENING DAY OF SEASON UNFAVORABLE FOR GOOD SHOOTING

Good, bad, and indifferent luck was experienced by the thousands of hunters from Crow Wing county and visiting hunters from other counties during the opening day of the duck season yesterday.

While many bagged the limit of 12 ducks for the day many returned with two and three while other bags were empty.

The season opened with rain which was dispelled soon by a warm sun that broke through the clouds and remained out the majority of the day.

Hunters also reported that the ducks were wild, and flying high.

Fleet Finns

NATIONAL ALLIES BUT PERSONAL ENEMIES THESE RUNNERS HELPED FINLAND TO SCORE A MORAL VICTORY IN THE 1928 OLYMPICS.

THEY BY KING PETERSON SYNDICATE, INC. FINNS RITOLA RIGHTLY NAMED.

By QUIN HALL. WITH only a handful of athletes entered in the various events it is pretty generally conceded that Finland won what might be termed a moral victory in the 1928 Olympic games held in Amsterdam.

Finland, whose population is less than half the population of New York City, sent 33 men to Amsterdam and scored five firsts, five seconds, four thirds, one fourth, two fifths and four sixths, for a total of 102 points under the American system of scoring, or an average of more than 3 points for each entrant. On that basis the laurel wreath of moral victory goes to Finland just as it went to Finland in 1912, 1920 and 1924.

In another respect Finland's Olympic record stands out as its points were scored in the competitions which can be classed as natural—such as the runs and steeplechase—whereas most of the United States points were rung up in the trick or acrobatic competitions.

As in the 1924 Olympic games at Paris two of the outstanding performers who brought glory to Finland again this year were Paavo Nurmi and Willie Ritola, the two Flying Finns whose records of achievement both here and abroad are highly respected.

While Ritola has lived in the United States since the war he still represents Finland in the Olympic meets and an interesting sidelight on these two fleet-footed cinder path stars is that they are bitter enemies. Paavo accused Willie of trying to steal his thunder in the 5,000-meter race in Paris in 1924 and since that time they have worked as allies for Finland but otherwise as rivals.

Nurmi, the machine-like strider, failed to equal his mark set in Paris in 1924 when he won four Olympic events, but had the satisfaction of beating Ritola at the latter's favorite 10,000-meter distance. Paavo also had the gratification of seeing Willie quit in the steeplechase final and while Nurmi himself was able to finish only second to another Finn, Toivo Loukola, it must have been a victory of a sort for Paavo.

Following the defeat of Nurmi and the breakdown of Ritola in this event, rumors broke out in Amsterdam to the effect that the Finns had plotted in advance to divide the distance events. This rumor seems to have a certain amount of foundation in view of the fact that Nurmi won the 10,000-meter, Ritola the 5,000-meter, Harry Larva the 1,500-meter and Loukola the steeplechase. It was strengthened through Ritola and Nurmi finishing one-two in the 5,000-meter, the order being reversed for the first time.

It developed later, however, that both Nurmi and Ritola were handicapped during the final days of the meet. In the 5,000-meter and the steeplechase final Nurmi was suffering from a strained back and an injured leg, while Ritola had strained thigh tendons. Age also had its effect on slowing down the fleet Finnish rivals.

These things undoubtedly had a bearing on the results in an event or two and set at rest the rumor concerning the allotment of the plums and anyway Finland won in each of the events and if Nurmi or Ritola saw fit to slow down in favor of some countryman it wouldn't be the same as if they had plotted with a rival country and is, therefore, nothing about which the League of Nations need become excited.

The additional years may put Nurmi and Ritola out of competition before the next Olympics but Finland will be well represented in Los Angeles in 1932. Larva is looked upon as Nurmi's successor and Loukola, the 22-year-old steeplechaser, is a promising young star.

The distance from Finland to Los Angeles is considerable but the Finns will have entries making the trip and another handful again may win a moral victory in 1932.

Paris, September 17.—(UP)—Five hundred and ten persons were killed in a hurricane at Guadeloupe, French West Indies, and many still are missing. It was announced officially tonight.

The governor of Guadeloupe, arriving at Pointe a Pitre on Sunday reported almost the entire island was devastated. Factories and government buildings were wrecked and houses washed away by a tidal wave.

Among the deaths recorded were 25 at Bourg, two at Cape Esterre, and seven at Goyave. Bourg was inundated by a tidal wave. Pointe A Pitre suffered greatly. Buildings were razed and settlements in the outskirts obliterated.

Guadeloupe is in the lesser Antilles, about 300 miles southeast of Porto Rico. It consists of two main islands, separated by a narrow channel and several smaller islands. The total population is about 200,000.

It was assumed that the storm was the same one that devastated Porto Rico, although the Paris announcement did not say what day it struck.

Almond Seeds Eaten

The almonds sold on the market are really the stones of the fruit of the almond tree. The fruit of the almond tree, which is supposed to be native in southern Europe, is dry around the seed instead of fleshy like that of the peach. Consequently the seed, not the fruit, is the part eaten.

PROPOSE NEW $100,000 BUSINESS ENTERPRISE

Tentative Plans Outlined for Construction on Former School Lots

SYREEN BROTHERS TO INVEST
$40,000 Service Station Planned as Initial Project on Extensive Plan

Materialization of plans to spend $100,000 on the former school lots on the northeast corner of Oak and Sixth streets recently purchased by Archie Falconer at a price of $11,500 as representative of a company to be formed in the near future will constitute one of the greatest business enterprises in Brainerd in years, it was learned today.

Tentative plans were announced today of proposed extensive construction within the next year. Archie Falconer, representative, informed the Dispatch that plans were being drawn for the construction of the finest service station in the northwest at a cost estimated at $40,000.

Applications for a building permit and license to operate will be made to the city council as soon as working plans have been completed. H. W. Fisher, of St. Louis, Mo., formerly of St. Cloud, has been engaged as architect and is busy on the plans for the super station to be constructed as the first project planned.

Later, it is understood, construction of a two story modern building with stores and hotel rooms will be planned.

Syreen Brothers will become the major investors in the enterprise, it was learned, with other Brainerd investors interested.

"We will apply to the council for permit to build and license to operate a service station just as soon as plans are completed," said Archie Falconer today, "to start with, we will put in a service station and later branch out as the company decides. The service station will be more than just a filling station. It is the aid of the investors to erect a service station unequalled in the state."

It is probable that following construction of the service station a bus station on the grounds will be erected.

Syreen Brothers are at present principal investors in stations in Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Iowa. They recently built Tourists' Haven on Laurel street near the Mississippi river bridge. Their outlay there is estimated at $20,000.

SIXTH DISTRICT REPUBLICANS HERE

Discuss Campaign Work at Brainerd Hoover Headquarters

CONG. KNUTSON SPEAKS

Says Issues of Campaign Are Farm Relief, Tariff and Waterway

Sixth congressional district republicans gathered at Brainerd Hoover headquarters this morning and discussed campaign work. William A. Lindberg, St. Paul, secretary of the republican state central committee spoke of county organization.

Congressman Harold Knutson of St. Cloud stressed loyalty to the entire republican ticket, praised A. E. Nelson, senatorial candidate and said Hoover will need a friendly senate. The issues of the campaign, said Congressman Knutson, are farm relief, tariff and the St. Lawrence waterway.

Other speakers were William M. Tabor, Park Rapids, Hoover club organizer; R. E. Barron, Wadena, district chairman of the congressional committee; Mrs. Winifred N. Campbell, Slayton, state chairwoman. Among republicans present were R. A. Hastings, Elk River, delegate to national convention, Miss Rose Merz, St. Cloud, and Mrs. Anne Stal, St. Cloud, alternates. Over 50 republican workers were present from all parts of the ten counties embraced in the sixth congressional district.

Reports received from different counties of the district indicate a decided swing to Hoover, said the speakers. The only exceptions noted are Morrison county which is expected to break even between Hoover and Smith and Stearns county which will go for Smith.

Many Hoover clubs have been organized in the district and much interest is manifested in the campaign. A Hoover club is to be formed in Brainerd tonight, all interested meeting at the Hoover headquarters 212 South Sixth street.

It was announced that Senator Borah of Idaho will speak at St. Paul on September 29. The address will be broadcast.

This afternoon the district meeting resolved itself into separate groups, the men being directed by Chairman Lindberg and the ladies by Mrs. Winifred N. Campbell of Slayton.

PHASES OF COMING ELECTION COVERED

Rev. Harold F. Damon in Four Minute Talk at First Baptist Church on Sunday

Says Democratic Party's Dry Plank Has Been Repudiated by Governor Smith

An unusual feature of the First Baptist church Sunday evening service was a series of four minute talks on "Religious and Moral Phases of the Presidential Election."

As announced by Rev. Harold Damon in his Saturday church notices, as published in the Dispatch: "Because the issue has become an obvious wet and dry contest, those who put the 18th amendment into the constitution will have something to say about keeping it there."

Sunday evening the pastor in his short talk said:

"It is not with any feeling of hesitation that I speak on this subject this evening. As a citizen of this great country of ours where freedom of speech is guaranteed, it is my prerogative to speak. As minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and an ordained pastor of the Baptist church, it is my duty to speak. As one who is seeking to follow the example of his Lord, I have a good precedent in the discourses which He gave. Not merely did He speak on questions relating to individual conduct and character, but also upon great moral issues regardless of whether they had a political bearing or not.

"The brief talk which I will give tonight will be from the standpoint that Al Smith is not a candidate representative of the principles for which his party stands. Therefore he is not one who can merit the support of even the party which nominated him. Political party affiliations have never set very heavily upon me.

"They may be useful in their place, but personalities and principles are greater than party lines. So it is not as either a republican or democrat, farmer-labor or socialist that I speak, but as an impartial observer. And the fact that is patent and obvious is this, that Al Smith is a bolter from the platform adopted by the democratic party.

"Perhaps to satisfy public demand, the democratic party, meeting in Houston, adopted a platform including a dry plank. But no sooner was Smith sure of his nomination than he sent a telegram back to them repudiating the most vital plank in their platform. And in his notification speech he clearly brought out the fact that no matter whether the platform on which he was nominated was wet or dry, he was wet, and wanted the fact known. So the issue before the voters is not a party issue, and in a sense not altogether a political issue, it is a moral one, and as such must be faced. Shall we who fought earnestly and long for the 18th amendment, whose mothers were the Carrie Nations and Frances Willards, permit a man to occupy the White House chair and wield the president's power, whose expressed purpose is to nullify and repeal that which they accomplished. Never, our children's welfare is too dear, our country's future means too much, the will of God for America is too plain for us to close our eyes to the issue and allow this to happen.

Better let me figure on repairing or replacing that roof now

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son Frank is an idler and, like his father, a spendthrift. The girl has a hard time mothering them both. On the eve of a great opening night for her father, Janet accepts the proposal of Gordon Pryor, a young but impecunious actor. In a restaurant she meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father drops dead after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. Gordon Pryor breaks his engagement and Janet realizes that it was her father's prestige and not love for her that prompted his proposal. The next day she obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, famous theatrical impresario. When she arrives home she finds Leonard Quigg waiting for her. She tells him of her broken engagement and he is about to propose to her when she warns him she wants only his friendship. He leaves, disgusted.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

SO MUCH had happened to Janet during the course of only a few weeks that it was a mental rest to her to settle down in her new job. She found John Montague an interesting employer. She would arrive at the office in the early afternoon, and he would frequently keep her attending to various matters until 8 or 9 o'clock in the evening, when he would permit her to go to her delayed dinner. But she liked it, and became keenly interested in the production end of the theatre. Christmas came and went, and Janet outwardly ignored its festivities. Inwardly, the girl tried hard to forget former Christmases when Fenimore Wilde had always entertained so lavishly. Of Frank she heard nothing, except a telegram from Florida that greeted her on Christmas morning. She worked on Christmas Eve late, and again on Christmas Day, and it was with a sigh of relief that she realized that the holiday was over.

But on New Year's Eve, John Montague released Janet early. "As you know, Miss Wilde, I never go to other people's houses," he remarked. "Tonight I have to go to dinner. I hate it, but it's a question of business—connected with a real estate deal. Have a good time tonight, and try to turn up here tomorrow without a New Year's Day hangover."

"And as you know, Mr. Montague," Janet smiled, "I don't happen to do that sort of thing."

"Not in this day and age?" he queried grimly. "Old-fashioned, are you?"

"Some call it that," Janet answered. "I wish you a Happy New Year in advance, Mr. Montague."

He got up and shook hands with her, looking at her in a curious way. "I have an idea that this is going to be a very eventful year for you," he said with deliberate emphasis. "Yes, I feel quite certain of that."

Janet dined at home, and afterwards took the Critic for a long walk.

"That's your New Year's treat," she told him, when she returned to her lonely apartment. "You and I will have to see the New Year in alone—and I wish I didn't feel quite so lonely, Critic." She knelt down on the floor, while the terrier snuggled against her.

Memories flooded her consciousness. Other New Year Eves, when her brilliant father, difficult but always lovable, would invariably plan some surprise for her—generally a surprise of which she had been cognizant for days before, when she would pretend a great astonishment for his pleasure. Tears blurred her vision as she knelt by the dog, and then she brushed them away angrily.

"Bah—sob-stuff!" Janet exclaimed aloud. She got up from the floor and, for something to do, started to clean the apartment.

And then the telephone rang, and Janet heard David Churchill's voice on the wire.

"I suppose you're just going out to a party?" he asked dolefully.

"I haven't been asked to a party," Janet told him. "I thought was the only, lonely person in New York City."

"I have been sitting alone the whole evening," he said. "With my wife and kids away, I didn't arrange anything for tonight. If it wouldn't bore you, could you and I go somewhere? I do wish you would. Let's go and dance, although I should warn you that I am a dancer, I'd starve!"

"I'd love it," Janet accepted. No thought of any future danger occurred to Janet as she dressed quickly, putting on a little evening frock of gold cloth. One of her late father's peculiarities had been his contempt for conventional mourning, which he had considered hypericry, and Janet had consequently made no change in her attire since his death.

"I telephoned to a place that isn't so bad," David announced as they drove away together. "I know the head waiter, and by a bit of luck some people had cancelled their reservations at the last minute. Rather an unpretentious place called 'A Little Spanish Town'—where the orchestra is good. Anyway, how good it is of you, Janet, to let me see the New Year in with a little laughter, instead of reading a dull treatise."

"Just as good of you," Janet said frankly, "because I was becoming cynical. I should have thought that some of the old set would have remembered me. On the other hand, it's my fault, for I have not let any of my father's friends know my new address."

They reached their table and the place was jammed with people.

Janet glanced about her and decided that she liked the Spanish decorations and the members of the orchestra in their Spanish peasant costumes.

"I brought a bottle of pre-war champagne with me," David confided in her. "We must have something when the New Year comes in."

A clock had been formed at the back of the small stage, where twelve girls made the hours, and a big lighted hand began to move towards twelve. The lights went out, except for those held by the twelve girls. There was absolute silence for a moment, and then the orchestra began to play. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot" as the hand pointed to midnight.

Amid the clamor of New Year greetings, the buzz of noisy conversation, and the din of toy rattles, David Churchill leaned across the little table. He took Janet's hand and raised it to his lips.

"The happiest New Year you have yet had, Janet!" he said. He released her hand and raised his glass. "A delightful New Year to you, Janet, and all the luck in the world. Something tells me that this coming year is going to make a great difference in your life!"

"And the best of New Years to you," Janet toasted him, sipping from her glass. Then she laughed. "You're the second person today, David, to tell me that this New Year is going to be an eventful one for me. John Montague said the same thing to me."

"Oh, did he?" David asked, and his tone was none too well pleased. "Will you dance?" he asked, as the orchestra began to play a tantalizing waltz.

They danced in silence, but when they had returned to their table and were pretending to eat the supper that was set before them, David looked seriously at his companion.

"I wish you'd promise me something, Janet—something quite serious—the first promise you can have made in the New Year."

"What is it?" she asked wonderingly. "Some New Year resolution?"

"It seems to me that you're going to have a difficult road to travel," David went on. "In a few weeks you lose your home and your father's protection—everything. And I don't notice any of your father's old friends hanging about ready to extend a helping hand."

"I can take care of myself," Janet said independently. "All the same," he went on earnestly, "do me a favor this New Year by promising me that if ever you get into any trouble of any kind—I don't care what it is—promise that you will come to me and let me help you if I can."

"I promise, David," Janet said simply, feeling that she was grateful for such friendship. For Janet had not the slightest suspicion that David had fallen in love with her.
